DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 9-10 and 12-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 10-11 and 13-16 contain divergent claim language. Claims 10-11 point to a device for playing a game and claims 13-16 point to a game, while claims 1, 5, 6 and 12 point to a method. Claims 10-11 and 13-16 do not provide competitors with an accurate determination of the metes and bounds of protection involved so that an evaluation of the possibility of infringement may be ascertained with a reasonable degree of certainty.

Double Patenting

Claims 1-16 of this application conflict with claims 1-15 of Application No. 09/981,467. 37 CFR 1.78(b) provides that when two or more applications filed by the same applicant contain conflicting claims, elimination of such claims from all but one application may be required in the absence of good and sufficient reason for their retention during pendency in more than one application. Applicant is required to either cancel the conflicting claims from all but one application or maintain a clear line of demarcation between the applications. See MPEP § 822.

Art Unit: 3714

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-3 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Moody et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,976,016; hereafter “Moody”).

Moody discloses a poker game (abstract) that each element has a selected color, playing indicia on each of the elements and at least 4 different subgroups (3:45-63).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4-12 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moody.

Referring to claims 4-5, as shown above, Moody discloses a poker type game using game elements that can use the colors red, yellow, blue and green (3:59-63). Moody discloses at least one of the features listed in each of the claims below, but does not teach all of the features such as the color black. However, these “untaught” features are equivalent to the features that are disclosed by Moody since Moody discloses that the game elements can be differentiated by colors and that the color black, lacking criticality, is considered well within the capabilities of one of ordinary skill to modify the game elements to be used for a particular game theme in order to stand out from other similar poker type games. Further, Moody discloses using cards, but does not disclose using a group of colored balls that are numbered from 1-10. However, the feature of balls numbered 1-10 as game elements, lacking criticality, is considered well within the capabilities of one of ordinary skill to modify the game elements to be used for a particular game theme in order to stand out from other similar poker type games. Furthermore, it is notoriously well known with the art of poker games that regular playing cards have the indicia of Ace, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, Jack, Queen, and King, where the Ace is considered the one card. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate a plurality of balls numbered 1-10 as the game elements of Moody in order to satisfy the particular gaming theme and stand out from other similar poker games.

Accordingly, Applicant suggests in the disclosure that other elements, besides a ball, can be used as long as the elements satisfy the distribution of 5 groups with each group having at least 10 elements (Page 6, line 21 to Page 7, line 3).

Referring to claim 6, Moody discloses the number of elements is five (Figure 1). Alternatively, it is notoriously well known in the art of poker to play with poker hands of three or four game elements in order to differentiate the poker type game from other poker type games and create more interest for the game. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use three or four card poker hands into Moody in order to create more interest in the poker game.

Referring to claim 7, Moody discloses that players can make wagers on the game and win the game based upon a gaming table (abstract and column 4, Table I).

Referring to claims 8-11, Moody discloses that the game is controlled and played on an electronic video game machine and a computer (1:19-30).

Referring to claim 12, as shown above, Moody discloses a poker type game that includes 5 sets of game elements wherein each set includes at least 40 balls (250 balls/ 5 sets of colors = 50 balls per set; 3:45-63).

Claims 14-16 correspond in scope to a game set forth for use of the method listed in the claims above and are encompassed by use as set forth in the rejection above.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Moody et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,098,985) discloses that the poker game can be played using 3 or 4 cards (abstract).

Leake (U.S. Patent No. 5,624,119) discloses using alternative symbols, such as circles, instead of the standard bingo game numbers (abstract).
